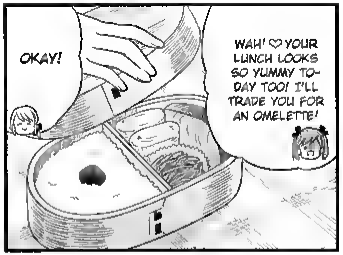
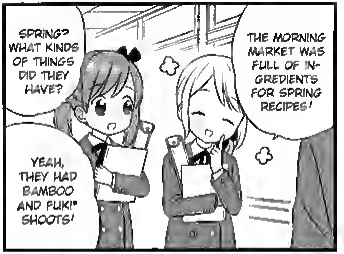
*Esper – in fiction, a term used for a character who possesses telepathic and other similar paranormal abilities.

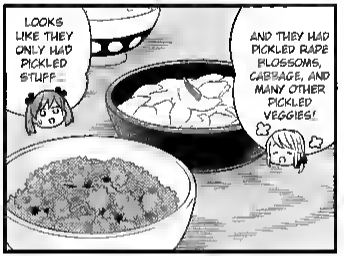


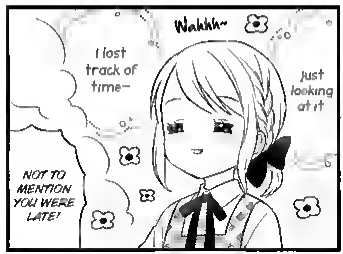


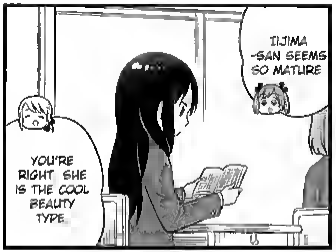
SPRING? WHAT KINDS OF THINGS DID THEY HAVE?
THE MORNING MARKET WAS FULL OF INGREDIENTS FOR SPRING RECIPES!
YEAH, THEY HAD BAMBOO AND FUKI* SHOOTS!

*Also known as butterbur is a plant used as a vegetable

*Grilled salmon collar

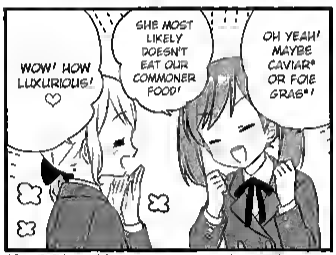






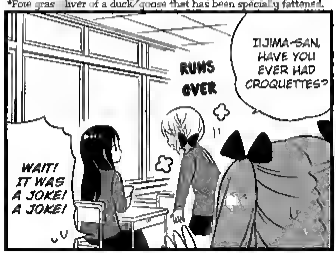
*Generally refers to a young girl/woman from a wealthy family

IT WOULD BE NICE TO SEE PEOPLE'S FACES AS THEY EAT THE YUMMY FOOD I MAKE.
YEAH PROBABLY
NAGISA-CHAN IS THINKING OF WORKING IN THE FOOD INDUSTRY IN THE FUTURE, RIGHT?



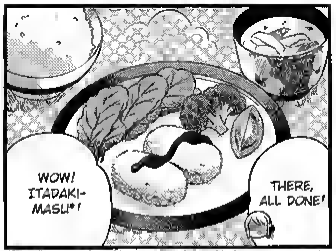
*Caviar—salt-cured fish eggs, eaten as a spread or garnish.
*Foie gras—liver of a duck/goose that has been specially fattened.

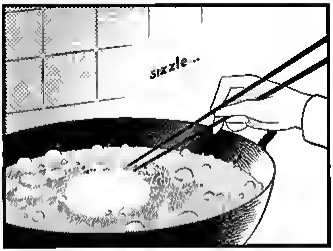
*Granny, grandmother or a general term for an elderly woman.



*Small rolls, covered in breadcrumbs and deep-fried, usually the main ingredient is mashed potatoes, ground meat, fish, cheese, or vegetables.

*Means "excuse me for disturbing/interrupting" used as a greeting when you enter someone's house.





*Literally means "I humbly receive" and is said before starting a meal. It is similar to "bon appetit" or saying grace before a meal.
